Venezuela and China on Monday agreed to extend their political alliance through a pact under which Chinese Communist Party will train Venezuelan ruling party leaders.

The agreement was reached during a meeting between Venezuelan parliament speaker, ruling party legislator Diosdado Cabello, and Chinese Vice President Li Yuanchao, who started Monday a four-day visit to Venezuela to strengthen bilateral cooperation.

"We have made some decisions for the fellow members of the United Socialist Party of Venezuela (PSUV) to receive political and social training from the Chinese Communist Party," Cabello said in a brief statement to reporters.

The dialogue experience

José Vicente Rangel clearly said: "We are not conducting negotiations threatened with a gun in the head." He warned behind closed doors in the midst of the social upheaval occurred during the oil strike in 2002 and 2003. Dissenting Timoteo Zambrano answered back that no other option was available: "The thing is that otherwise, you do not negotiate."
